COLDER THAN EVER. THE MERCURY HIDES AWAY

Bifrard Shoots Out From its Nest Below the North Pole and is Pushing its Way Southward-The Most Severe Storm Ever Witnessed in the Country-The Temperature.

WASHINGTON, January 22 .- The reports to the chief signal officer show that the antici-pated blizzard has at last gotten under way and parting have in the northwest. From St.

Paul it is reported as the coldest of the present season. The mercury early this morning ranged from 28 to 35 below zero, and at noon marked 20 to 25 degrees below, with a high wird blowing, making it exceedingly disagreeable. The railways are experiencing serious difficulty from the drifting snow. The greatest trouble is on the Pacific and St. Paul line, near Lake Pepin, where the wind is blowing the snow off the ice on the lake into the cuts along the road, forming a heavy blockade and greatly delaying trains. Four engines have been at work since any right ing" the snow and endeavoring to clear the track. In Dubuque, Iowa, the mercury is 12 track. track. In Dubuque, lowa, the mercury is 12 to 15 degrees below zero, and still falling. The railroads are badly blockaded. No trains on the Illineis Central, west of Dubuque, are moving today. The blizzard and blockade on the road beyond Fort Dodge are the most severe ever experienced. The passenger train leaving Sioux City Thursday evening was caught near Remson in caught near Remson in

From St. Paul, Minn., it is learned that the blizzard, which has been raging since last night, is the worst known among the railroads for years. In every direction it is very cold and blowing at a terrific rate, filling the cuts, and in the southern part of the country making it impossible to keep them clear long enough to run trains. The trains on the Southern Minnesota division of the Milwaukee road have been abandoned. A heavy freight train is stuck in the snow drifts near Lake City. At Medicine Fort, Manitoba, last night at 9 o'clock the mercury was to degrees below, and at Port Assinaiboine 49 degrees below. There is no blecade. The weather is cold today.

At 11 p. m. the mercury stood ten to eleven degrees below zero in Chicago, and is still falling.

All the through trains west are again abaudened and business is at a standstill on the Santa Fe, Kansas Pacific, Burlington and Missouri river railroads, except for local trains. The Missouri Pacific train to Omaha is also reported blockaded above Atchison. The present experience is the worst the western roads have known for years.

REPORTS FROM SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA The steamer Orizaba, which arrived here to-ay from Los Angeles, brings the details of the evastation produced by the storm in that city and vicinity. The rains of Sunday and Mon-day and Tuesday were supplemented by a cloud burst in San Bernardino valley, on the last named day, and the Los Angeles river, last named day, and the Los Angeles river, almost without warning, became a raging torrent and soon flooded the southern central part of the town. The water also covered 2,000 acres of orchards and vineyards. The river rose two feet higher than the flood of February, 1884. Over fifty houses were washed away or completely wrecked. Every bridge across the Los Angeles river was swept away, also 100 feet of track of the Southern Pacific. also 100 feet of track of the Southern Pacific and the local roads telegraph poles, were included in the general destruction, and for three days the city was cut off from railroad communication with was cut off from railroad communication with the rest of the world. SHERIDAN ON SIGNAL BUREAU. He Does Not Regard it as Army Work, and Has Nothing to Do With It.

Has Nothing to Do With It.

WASHINGTON, January 22.—The substance of General Sheridan's recent replies to the congressional commission considering the organization of scientific bureaus has been made public. General Sheridan was examined principally in regard to the signal service, and was entirely in the shape of questions by the committee and direct replies thereto. To the question, "How much importance do you attach to the signal work proper that is being done from time to time at Fort Meyer, aside from the meteroligical work?"

done from time to time at Fort Meyer, aside from the meteroligical work?"

The general replied: "That we are not interested in at all, except as the people generally are. In the other we are somewhat interested, but think all this Fort Meyer matter and this signal business is growing unnecessarily clumsy in its present state. Originally, when Myer was in command, it was a bureau for signaling. It was like any other bureau. for signaling. It was like any other bureau of the war department, and the duties were all performed at the different military posts throughout the whole country. It seen be simple and inexpensive at that time, and yet it seemed to cover all our wants. So far as Fort Myer is concerned, we do not feel any necessity for keeping that up. We have at every military post in the service the same thing going on that is going on here."

Q.—That is you teach signaling?

A.—Yes, sir. An officer is detailed to this duty, and so many times every week dispatches are signalled until everybody who is intelligent crough to learn that.

Q.—What has the signal bureau to do with that work?

A.—It has not anything especially to do with it. It is more a matter of courtesy than anything else to render monthly reports to the chief signal officers. The work is done by the efficers and men of the army without any co-peration with the officers or men of his buoperation with the officers or men or manuferatu. It is under the control and direction of the department commander, and when the reports are made out they are sent through him.

Q.—What is the extent and character of

A.—Its going on at every army post. A signal officer is detailed who takes one set of men and trains them until he gets them in-structed, and then he takes another set of

Q.—Then so far as the utility of Fort Myer is concerned, for the purpose of teaching military signalling, you think it can be despensed with? A.—Yes sir, I do think so.

Q.—Suppose this commission should conclude that, for the purpose of economy. Fort Myer should be dispensed with as a signal station, what could be done with the property that is there?

A.—We could move one of the artillery companies there. We have six companies and.

There are quarters enough at Fort Myer for two companies. nies. There are fifteen sets of officers quar ters there. The reservation has 888 acres of land besides the cemetery. Q.—What are your views as to the character

Q.—What are your views as to the control of the meteological service. Do you regard it

A.—No, sir, I do not. I think if belongs to the business of the country.

Q.—It has been said that it is essential to

Q.—It has been said that it is essential to have military authority to compel the men to remain at remote points, and that if the service were entirely a civil character, parties could be procured to remain at these undesirable places, but would resign?

A.—No. I do not think that. I think you could get good men to remain at these places. Of course it would be a matter of pay, but the execution of their work might be better if ander military authority. I want to say that I der military authority. I want to say that I have nothing to do with that bureau.

The object of the delegation was to present to congress the memorial embodying the views and THE PRESIDENT'S VIEWS gress the memorial embodying the views and action of the Savannah convention. Yester-day they were accorded a hearing before the senate committee on commerce. Today they appeared before the house river and harbor ommittee and presented their memorial with everal strong addresses. This afternoon they alled upon President Cleveland, and were corcalled upon rresident ceverand, and were cordially received. The president expressed much interest in the object of the convention, and said his views had changed much since as governor of New York, he expressed his idearegarding the transportation question. He is now, he said, profoundly impressed with the importance of developing the natural water ways of the country and believes that the ways of the country, and believes that the public money judiciously expended upon such improvements is wisely expended. The rea-son why he had not treated the subject in his necessage was not because he underestimated its importance, but because he did not have time to give it that close and careful study without which he was reluctant to commit himself to recommendations upon any point of public policy. He said he hoped to see the commercial facilities of every section improved and developed as rapidly as is consistent with a wise and economical expenditure of the public funds.

WHIPPED BY WISE. REMARKABLE SCENE IN THE

Draws Out the Virginia Representative, Whe Makes the Fur Fly From the Republican Agitators-What They Said,

WASHINGTON, January 22 .- [Special.] -George Wise's speech in reply to Boutelle or the alleged abuses at the Norfolk navy yard, is conceded to have been one of the happiest efforts made in the house in many a day. Mr. Herbeit had yielded only five minutes to Wise, but at the expiration of that time he was making the fur fly at such a rate that Herbert exclaimed, "Go ahead; take all the time!" Wise went ahead and showed up the republican practices in Virginia in an unanswerable array of facts, and splendidly put together. The mest amusing thing about the entire episode was that the republicans had been filibustering to get three hours for debate, and in fifteen minutes Mr. Wise completely pulverized their blatant champion from Maine. Wise was cheered heartily and had a continued ovation after he resumed his seat. It was not the first time that Boutelle had been severely sat upon in the house, but this experience is one he is not likely to forget. THE NORFOLK NAVY YARD.

Wise's Speech. Washington, January 22.—In the house Mr. Herbert, of Alabama, from the committee on naval affairs, reported back the Boutelle resolution calling on the secretary of the navy for information relative to the alleged erasures of certain inscriptions and the dismissal of union soldiers at the Norfolk navy yard, with an amendment extending the inquiry to the dismissals made at the navy yard and light house district at Norfolk during the terms of the immediate predecessors of the present secretary of the navy. Mr. Herbert, stating that the res olution was substantially the same as that originally offered by Mr. Boutelle, except that it was somewhat broader, demanded the pre-

"It is evident, then," said Mr. Herbert, "that the gentlemen do not want their own interrogatories answered. I withdraw the report.

Mr. Reed, of 'Maine.—The report is being cted upon and cannot be withdrawu.

The speaker held that as the report was made to the house by order of the committee, it could not be withdrawn without leave of the ouse. [Applause on the republican side.]
Mr. Reed—I suggest that the gentlema

Mr. Boutelle inquired whether the gentieman had stated that the committee had instructed him to call the previous question.
Mr. Herbert—I made no such statement.
Mr. Boutelle—He was not so instructed.

Mr. Herbert—I made no such statement.
The republicans opposed the motion for all of the house, but it was ordered by a vot of yeas 153 to nays 123.

The call disclosed the presence of 296 members, there being but ninety-two absentees, and on metion of Mr. Herbert, a resolution was adopted, directing the sergeant-at-arms to arrest and bring to the bar of the hou arrest and bring to the bar of the house such members as were absent without leave.

Immediately Mr. Reed moved that sall further proceedings under the call be dispensed with. He called attention to the fact that there was an unusually full attendance of members. The sole question which now existed was the question of liberty of debate. No unreasonable time was asked for by the minority. It could not be that the gentlemen on the other side, with a majority of forty, were desirous of suppressing debate from fear of any consequences. No harm ever came in a free country from a free discussion of a legitime te proposition.

Mr. Herbert stated that the rules of the rescribed a reasonable time for the de-a resolution of this character. Thirty s were allowed, fifteen for each side, after the previous question was ordered. It was simply a resolution of inquiry, and there was nething to debate until the inquiry had been removed.

Mr. Reed suggested that the committee on Mr. Reed suggested that the committee on naval afairs had added an amendment to the resolution, which debate would show to be a mistake and entirely futile.

Mr. Herbert replied that his side of the house was entirely willing to accept the consequences of any mistake which might have been made by amending the resolution. If the additional inquiry made was futile, the answer of the secretary of the navy would show it.

Mr. Reed insisted that the house had the right to debate any question coming before it and it was not for any man, or any set of me to decide whether the proposition was a proper one to be discussed.

Mr. Hewitt, of New York, agreed with Mr.
Reed in maintaining the freedom of debate, but in the present case there was nothing to debate. The democratic side had had to maintain for many years the right of representatives of the people to discuss important political ducations, and many times had he seen the cal questions, and many times had he seen the other side trying to suppress debate. It did not lie in the mouth of the gentleman on the other side to taunt the democrats with any attempt to limit the debate. The house had decided by its rules that on resolutions of this sort there should be fifteen minutes debate are sort there should be fifteen minutes debate pro and con, and this was justified from the fact that there was no information on which an intelligent debate could be passed. The very object of the resolution was to get at facts upon which a debate might pro-teed and he thought he could pledge his side of the house to give the amp-fest opportunity for discussion, when the in-formation called for was given by the secre-tary of the navy. But to undertake to come in now with partisan statements, was a waste of time, and an abuse of the confidence of the sort there should be fifteen minutes debate pro

Mr. Reed's motion was voted down, and after a short wait, the sergeant at arms brought to the bar of the house Messrs. Sowden, Riggs and Bingham. After being considerably guyed by their associates, the excuses presented by these gentlemen were deemel satisfactory, and they were released from custody. At 2:30 Mr. Herbert thought he had secured a quorum of democrats, and accordingly further proceedings under the call were dispensed with. Mr. Reed's motion was voted down and fact that the first legislative act of the house had been the passage by unanimous consent of a bill removing the political disabilities of an ex-confederate who had waited more than twenty years before discovering a desire to be placed in the line of eligibility to an appointment under the executive department of the United States, In contrast with this, he, Boutelle, had been tauntingly informed that fifteen minutes of time was an ample allowance in which to present the case of the outrageous dismissal of disabled veterans of the union army from the employment of the government, and the obliteration, debasement and removal of inscriptions commemorative of the success of the union army. He trusted that these facts, placed in juxtaposition, would prove fact that the first legislative act of the house had been the passage by man. placed in juxtaposition, would prove more instructive to the country than any remarks he could offer. The resolution he had introduced had related to the allega-tions that an officer of the United States government, at one of the navy yards of the government, had ordered the obliteration of honorable inscriptions on cannon captured by the United States, and caused to be removed from the dry dock a memorial tablet setting forth that it had been destroyed by the rebels in 1862 and recaptured in 1863. He didn't understand that the facts had been in any way contradicted. On the contrary he found the Norfolk paper, whose editor was closely connected with this efficer, had stated that Comamndant Bruxton, in place of censure, was entitled to praise.

The paper said that when he had taken charge of the navy yard he had found inscriptions intended to keep alive the bitter memories of civil strife, and had patriotically ordered them to be removed. Mr. Boutelle referred to the removal of the superintendent of machinery at the navy yard because of his denurring to the defreevent, of the dry dock demurring to the defacement of the dry dock, and the appointment of a man whose title to the position rested on service in the confederate army. He confidered that a sufficient reason for calling attention to the matter. He had found evidence that since the 4th of March, '85, there had been repeated and systematic removals from positions in which they were placed, of officers of the government, of wounded and disabled veterans of the republic, to make place for men who had sought to destroy it. He deemed that a fitting matter to call the attention of the house and the country. The attempt, whenever made and by whoever made, to set demurring to the defacement of the dry dock, whenever made and by whoever made, to set up the plea that the tearing down of the loyal memorials of the war, was demanded by any broad sentiment of patriotism, was based on absolute sophistry. If the time had come, or should come, to obliterate the great memorials of the rebellion, the monument of the rebel-tion itself should be first torn down. Let not the work be begun by taking down the in-scriptions commemorative of the victories of armies of the United States. He had a list of the great marble memorials growing up all over this land, to perpetuate the cause of trea-son and rebellion. He had a description of a son and rebellion. He had a description of a monument creeted in Georgia, bearing inscriptions breathing anything but the spirit of loyalty to this government, a monument bearing on its face evidence of a design to perpetuate the memory of the attempt on the life of the republic. The soldier who came to Washington might wander in valu through the great attractions of the column art repository of this city looking for the counterfeit presentiment of one of the heroes who sustained the flag of the union. He would find that the only men who were memoralized and remembered in the Corcoran art gallery were Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson. These representations were not simily to keep alive the memory of a great war, but were representations of soldiers. They were depicted full confederate uniform. Two years ago. when the house was considering an appropria-tion of one million dollars for the New Orleans exposition, the people down there who were so anxious to have the union memorials obliterated, were creeting a monument thirty feet high to Robert E. Lee, the chief military head of the rebellion. There was no justice in the claim that broad patriotism required the obliteration of the records of the grandest triumph ever made for humanity since the first morning stars sang together. [Applause on the republican side]. The people of the country ought to say, as old General Dix said in regard to the American flag: "If any man attempts to pull down the memorial of the great triumph of the loyal people of this country, shoot him on the spot." [Prolonged applause on the republican side]. A few days ago a report had been sent down to a Richmond paper, in which he was spoken of with that degree of politeness for which anxious to have the union memorials obliterat of politeness people down noted. He was informed that he had been macerated and dessicated by the gentleman from Virginia (Wise), and he found in man from Virginia (Wise), and he found in the same paper an idyl under the head of "A" Southern Historical Society Paper," which showed that the southern people were not so anxious to forget their part in the war. The paper praised Ballentin's report in the last congress relative to the fight between the Merrimac and the Monitor, and declared that it refuted completely the popular delusion in the north that the Monitor had beaten the Mer-rimae. (Laughter on republic mostle). These the north that the Monitor had beaten the Mer-rimae. (Laughter on republican side.) These gentlemen were not anxious to have the his-tory of the war wiped out. They wanted to write it over. They wanted to write their victories over the face of the record that showed the great triumph of union arms. (Laughter and applause on republican side.) He profested against this sort of thing. Whether he stood here or elsewhere, whether his position were that of a member of con-gress or a citizen in private life, he entered his protest against this morbid sentimentality, against this false idea of magnan-ity, which would for one moment tolerate the laying of the hands of descration on the memerials of the triumph of the union arms.

These had not only been treated with contempt, but in case of the Norfolk navy yard and custom house, gallant, efficient, worthy, faitful public servants, who had followed the flag of their country across a hundred battle fields, had been fuved out that their there is the constitute of the country across a hundred battle fields, had been turned out that their places might be given to men who had fought to destroy the government. DANIELSVILLE GOES DRY. The Liquor License Placed at Eight Hundred Dollars.

DANIELSVILLE, January 22.—[Special.]—Mr. C. B. Henry, T. A. Grimes, Dr. G. C. Daniel, J. H. Smith and J. O. Daniel were sworn in last night as commissioners for the town for the year 1886. Dr. G. C. Daniel was choson presi-dent, and T. A. Grimes secretary and treasurer. Mr. Hugh Hazelman was chosen as marshal. Considerable debate was had over the fixing of the tax for liquor license. Mr. Grimes moved to fix the license at $300. Mr. Henry is re-ported as opposing that figure on the idea that it would give one bar room a monopoly, since only one could afford to run under that high a license, and was in favor of placing the license at a lower figure, so that if another should de-sire to run, it might be done. The debate waxed warm, and rather than fix the fee at $300 and allow the monopoly, Mr. Henry preferred to place the figure so high that no-body could afford to sell. He moved, there-fore, to amend Mr. Grimes's motion so that $800 should be cost of license. This amendment was accepted by Mr. Grimes and on final vote Messis. Henry and Grimes voted for the amendment, Mr. J. H. Smith against, Mr. J. O. Donnell did not vote, and thus left the voice of two men to settle the matter. The licens thus fixed at $800 amounts to the prohibition of the sale in our town.

MAYSVILLE, Ga., January 22.—[Special.]— Mrs. C. M. Irvin, wife of Rev. Charles M. Irvin, D. D., died at her son's home in this place n Tuesday afternoon, the 19th. Dr. Irvin ad been absent on his ministerial work for some time, and returned on the receipt of a telegram summoning him to the bedside of his dying wife. She died a few hours before he arrived. Pneumonia was the cause of her

Mrs. Irvin was the mother-in-law of Rev. M. B. Wharton, D. D., of Montgomery, Ala., and a sister-in-law of the late Judge E. A. Nisbet, of Macon. She was the daughter of Reuben Battle, of Hancock county. She was in the 18th year of her age, and had been married fifty-one years.

She was widely known in Georgia and universally esteemed. Her husband has been paster of the Baptiat church at Madison, at Albany, at Camilla and of the Second Baptist church of Atlanta. As a pastor's wife, as a mother, in all works of kindness and benevo-lence, she filled well her mission in life and has gone to her reward. She was well known and widely connected in Georgia, and the sym pathies of multitudes are with the afflicted family.

The still and appurtenances belonging thereto f the naval stores works of Dodge, Meigs & Co., are to be removed from the interior of Tel-fair county to Normandale.

A large naval stores farm has been recently opened up at Pickren, in Coffee county. The firm is composed of Major N. McK. McNeil, of county, S. .. and Wm. C. Vereer and A. G. Douglass, of Montgomery county. The Catoosa basket factory started in running order last Monday morning with en couraging results. The Courier says the ma chinery, which is all new, was selected b skilled machinists, and when put in operatio worked like a charm. The work was com menced with only twenty hands, but that force will be doubled within the next thirty days. The baskets that are being made are consid-ered first class. Mr. Benjamin says they can sell more baskets than they can make their present machinery, and early in the spring the facilities for the work will be doubled, as will, also, the number of hands. The company received an order this week from Texas for 12,000 one, two and three bushel baskets, which order will be filled at once. They have another order for smaller baskets from a scuthern fruit man that may run over 25,000 before it is fully supplied. Mr. Benjamin, who is skilled in the business, says the pine in that section is the finest for making easkets he ever saw. In May Messrs. Benja-min & Whitsitt will start a butter dish factory in connection with their basket factory, the machinery for which will cost about $10,000. If these enterprises prove to be successful, Ring gold will be one of the liveliest manufacturing towns in the south.

The Athens Banner says: "This section of the state is rich in minerals, and the earth only needs touching with the magic wand of devel-opment to yield a harvest of filthy lucre. In fact, there is scarcely astream in this section but the sand upon its bottom is sprinkled with gold washed from the neighboring hillsides. In Oconee county there is an abundance of the best iron ore, and the water power at High shoals was first utilized to turn nachinery to mark it. The iron ore is of yory fire quality, and the supply is inexhaust-ible. In Madison county, and near Winter-ville, are inexhaustible deposits of plumbago, or black lead, in which there is millions, if the nines were developed. As to isinglass, it crop mines were developed. As to ising ass, it crops out all over this section, and flakes that will square six inches or more are often found. About a year ago Dr. Hunnicutt started to develop a mine of this on his place up the river, but the vein soon gave out. The other day, in conversation with a gentleman in Athens, he told us that during the war he found in a wash up the Orange. the war he found in a wash up the Oconee a number of particles of pure lead, ranging in size from a birdshot to a slug, showing that there was a vein of this valuable mineral near at hand. He afterwards tried to find the spot, but has not as yet given up the quest. He says the mine is certainly there, and he will yet find it. The gentleman does not even know on whose land it is located.

Is Georgia an October State?

From the Milton, Ga., Democrat. A great deal has been said in the papers of Georgia and other states about October states especially Ohio, at the last gubernatorial elec-tion in that state an amendment to the consti-tution was voted on and adopted making it a November state. Did it ever occur to any-body that Georgia is an October state? And body that Georgia is an October state? And that some day this feature in it might destroy the strength of the democratic party?

A Small Fire in Henry County-The P. tion in Talbotton to be Contested - A Pight Over g Game of Poker in Greenville—An Acci-dental Shot in Washington County.

The late prohibition election in Talbotton is to be contested by the whisky men. Covington has seven retail barrooms, three of them being in one building. There are no licensed barrooms outside the city, however. Seaborn O'Neal, colored, of Barnesville, who was accused of letting his 107 year old father freeze to death, denies the charge, and asserts that the story originated with enemies. The store of F. M. Morris, at Brooks' mills, ust beyond Woodbury, was burned down Satarday night, causing a loss of twelve hundred dollars. The door was found broken in and the fire was evidently the work of an incen

At the Winston house in Greenville, last Friday, Mr. George Dallas, in a game of poker, is said to have won all the money of Mr. W. P. Baker. An altercation ensued, in which Dalia with a knife gashed Baker across the cheek, in the arm and over the head.

On Friday morning of last week the family f Colonel W. H. Bonner, in Henry, were aroused just before day by the furious barking of the dogs, and on going out, discovered the smokehouse on fire at all four corners. The flames were soon extinguished, and but little damage was done. It was clearly the work of an incendiary, as there had been no fire about

The Death of a Good Man-An Incident of the Cars With a Crying Baby. The Augusta Evening News of the 21st, in speaking of the death of Governor Conley,

The vestry of St. Philip's church, Atlanta, on last Sunday passed suitable resolutions of respect to the late Governor Conley. The governor was one of the best hearted men in the world, and his Christian character was simply perfect. Looking at this side of his life, there was not a more loveable nature to be found anywhere. A circumstance witnessed by the writer while Mr. Conley was acting governor of the state goes far to sustain this assertion. On the train between Atlanta and West Point was a poor tired mother, whose sick and fretful infant had well nigh ex-bausted her strength and patience. The cries bausted her strength and patience. The cries of the child, with pleadings and lullabies of is mother for hours had driven the more thoughtless and uncharitable passengers into rervousness and despair. The fond mother roticed the discomfort of her fellow passengers and redoubled her efforts to quiet the child The good hearted governor, noticing this condition of affairs, went over to where the moth-er was sitting, and, in a most fatherly manner and tone of voice, asked to be permitted to relieve her of the child for a little while. Taking the baby in his arms, the governor of the state of Georgia walked backwards and forth the length of the car, "talking baby talk," and in various other ways soothing and diverting the thoughts of the little one for an hour or more, or until it had quieted down and slept sweetly in the governor's arm, who then handed it ever to its mother. This act was, of course, witnessed by the passengers, and when it was known that the kind old gentleman who was assisting the tired mother in quieting her babe was the governor of the state of Georgia, it was easy to imagine the feelings of the party. This little incident is given only to show the goodness of the heart of the man who was in terred in our cemetery last week, and the whose memory the vestry of St. Philipchurch passed such complimentary resolution last Sunday.

Storey's Rat Trap.

Captain J. M. Storey, of this city, has some-thing in the way of a rat trap which beats anything we have ever seen, and which is in anything we have ever seen, and which is in every way a complete success. An ordinary circular wire trap is set upon a box in the top of which is a hole with a pivotal door. After the rat goes into the wire trap he stands upon this door which swings round, letting him fall into the box. The under part of the door is studdied with points which prevent the rat from coming out again. The greatest number which Cantaian Storey caught in one night from coming out again. The greatest number which Captaian Storey caught in one night was nineteen, and in all he has captured seventy-five. It is impossible for the rat to escape after they are once in.

Mr. Holland's loss is about $150.

about $150.

The cold wave in the Cohuttahs drove many of the wild animals inhabiting those mountains to the vallies below in reach of better protection and more food than could be found in the rocky heights. In some instances the deer, driven desperate by the pangs of hunger, would approach near enough to the farm houses to be captured with but little difficulty.

During the recent severe cold spell, as the steamer Mary Cooper steamed up the Oconec, a herd of cattle were discovered in the inundated swamps, embargoed, as it were, from the high land by ice. Captain Charlie Philips, taking in the situation at a glance, went to the rescue and safely transported the cattle to the hills.

The Athens Banner says: Mr. M. B. Mc-Ginty comes up with the most marvelous tale of this century. Mr. M., like every other man in Athens that can afford it, has a fine Jersey cow with a pedigree running back to the isle of Jersey. On the 8th of this month, during the first part of the cold wave, this now lamous cow gave birth to a calf which froze to death. Yesterday this same cow gave birth to another calf, that is alive and doing birth to another calf, that is alive and doing well. It was ten days between the birth of the first calf and the last one. This ought cer-tainly to increase the value of Jerseys and especially Mr. McGinty's cow.

THE SCHOOLS OF GEORGIA.

The school of Professor Thos. B. Moss, of Lexington, is increasing in number. The spring term of Danielsville high school opened with a fine attendance. Miss Jennie Ellis has a school of about twenty-five scholars at Clark's chapel, in Calhour county, and is succeeding well in training the young idea.

Mr. W. J. Norton began the building of the colored academy in Crawfordville this week. Dry Valley seminary is situated seven miles cast of Calhoun and two miles west of Sonora. It opened with about sixty scholars, and the prospects are fair for a good school there this Year.

The exercises of the Alpharetta high school opened on Monday last, having been deferred two weeks in consequence of the weather.

The Flovilla high school opened with fifty-six pupils, and has constant accessions.

There are 119 children now attending school in Perry, sixty-two at the college, fifty-one at the academy and six at a private school taught by Miss Nettie Hook.

The spring term of the Fort Gaines academy began on last Monday with thirty scholars.

The spring term of the Sandersville high School opened flatteringly with 160 pupils mattendance. The colored school numbers about 120 pupils. Mrs. Butcher has also a white juvenile school, making total number of pupils, white and colored, in Sandersville about 300.

Professor Wilson, of East Cartersville insti-stitute, has quite a fine school and is much pleased with his prospects in that city.

The Stephens High school opened up last Monday, in Crawfordville, with 51 pupils.

This is a flattering prospect—almost insuring an attendance of 100 by the time spring fairly opens. Professor Sanford will do a great work for Crawfordville and Taliaferro county. With a flourishing high school for the education of the youth the future of the county is a flourishing high school for the education of the youth the future of the county is bright with promise and hope. The influ-ence of this school will widen as it becomes better established and become a powerful factor for good in this section of country. In connec-tion with this subject we have been shown a card from the treasurer of the Stephens monu-mental association to Miss Gay announcing to her that the high school under the auspices of that association onend last week with seventy. that as ociation opened last week with seventy-five pupils. He says: "We will have a good number of boarding pupils from a distance, some already in from Augusta and up and down the line of railroad, and we are expecting some from Louisiana. The prospects for the school are very fine."

A TERRIBLE CONFESSION.

PHYSICIAN PRESENTS SOME START-LING FACTS.

Can It Be That the Danger Indicated is Universal.

The following story-which is attracting wide attention from the press-is so remarka ble that we cannot excuse ourselves if we do not lay it before our readers entire:

To the Editor of the Rochester, (N. Y.,) Democrat: SIR:—On the first day of June, 1881, I lay at SIE—On the first day of June, 1881, I lay at my residence in this city surrounded by my friends and waiting for death. Heaven only knows the agony I then endured, I words can never describe it. And yet, if years previous any one had told me that I was to be brought so low, and by so terrible a disease, I should have scoffed at the idea. I had always been uncommonly strong and healthy, and weighed over two hundred pounds, and hardly heave in word a vergence whether had a single side. knew in my own experience, what pain or sick-ness were. Very many people who will read this statement realize at times they are unu-sually tired and cannot account for it. They fee sually tired and cannot account for it. They teed dull pains in various parts of the body and do not understand why. Or they are exceedingly hungry one day and entirely without an appetite the next. This was just the way I felt when the relentless malady which had fastened itself upon me first began. Still I thought nothing of it; that probably I had taken cold which would some pass away. Shortly which would soon pass away. Shortly after this I noticed a heavy, and at times neuralgic, pain in one side of my head, but as it would come one day and be gone the next, I paid little attention to it. Then my stemach would get out of order and my food often failed to digest, causing at times great inconvenience. Yet, even as a physician, I did not think that these things meant anything serious. I fancied I was suffering from malaria and dectored myself accordingly. But I got no better. I next noticed a peculiar col-or and odor about the fluids I was passing or and odor about the fluids I was passing—also that there were large quantities one day and very little the next, and that a persistent froth and seum appeared upon the surface, and a sediment settled. And yet I did not realize my danger, for, indeed, seeing these symptoms continually, I finally became accustomed to them; and my suspicion was wholly disarmed by the fact that I had no pain in the affected organs or in their vicinity. Why I should have been so blind I cannot understand!

I consulted the best medical skill in the land. I visited all the famed mineral springs in America and traveled from Maine to California. Still I grew worse. No two physicians

nia. Still I grew worse. No two physicians agreed as to my malady. One said I was troubled with spinal irritation, another, dyspesia; another, heart disease; another, genpepsia; another, heart disease: another, general debility; another, congestion of the base of the brain; and so on through a long list of common diseases, the symptoms of many of which I really had. In this way several years passed, during which time I was steadily growing worse. My condition had really become pitiable. The slight symptoms I had at first experienced were developed into terrible and constant disorders. My weight had been reduced from 207 to 130 pounds. My life was a burden to myself and friends. I could retain no food on my stomach, and lived wholly by injections. I was a living mass of pain. My pulse was ucontrollable. In my agony I frequently fell to the floor and clutched the carpet and prayed for death! Morphine had little quenty refi to the noor and citted the car-pet and prayed for death! Morphine had little or no effect in deadening the pain. For six days and nights I had the death premouitory hiccoughs constantly! My water was filled with tube-casts and albumen. I was strug-gling with Bright's Disease of the kidneys in its last stages!

While suffering thus I received a call from my pastor, the Rev. Dr. Foote, at that time rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, of this city. I felt that it was our last interview, but city. I felt that it was our last interview, but in the course of conversation Dr. Foote detailed to me the many remarkable cures of cases like my own, which had come under his of servation. As a practicing physician and a graduate of the schools, I derided the idea of any medicine outside the regular channels being in the least beneficial. So solicitous, however, was Dr. Foote, that I finally promised I would waive my prejudice. I began its use on the first day of June, 1881, and took it according to directions. At first it sickened me, but this I thought was a good sign for one in my debilitated condition. I continued to take it; the sickening sensation departed, and in my debilitated condition. I continued to take it; the sickening sensation departed, and I was finally able to retain food upon my stomach. In a few days I neticed a decided change for the better, as also did my wife and friends. My hiccoughs ceased and I experienced less pain than formerly. I was so rejoiced at this improved condition that, upon what I had believed but a few days before was my dying hed I wowd in the presence of my my dying bed, I vowed, in the presence of my family and friends, should I recover I would both publicly and privately make known this remedy for the good of humanity, wherever and whenever I had an opportunity, and this letter is a fulfillment of that were My in letter is in fulfillment of that vow. My improvement was constant from that time, and in less than three months I had gained 26 pounds in flesh, became entirely free from pain and I believe I owe my life and present condition wholly to Warner's safe cure, the remedy which I used.

Since my recovery I have thoroughly reinvestigated the subject of kidney difficulties and Bright's disease, and the truths developed and Bright's disease, and the truths developed are astounding. I therefore s'ate, deliberately, and as a physician, that I believe more than one-half the deaths which occur in America are caused by Bright's disease of the kidneys. This may sound like a rash statement, but I am prepared to verify it fully. Bright's disease has no distinctive feature of its own, (indeed, it often develops without any rasin. disease has no distinctive feature of its own, (indeed, it often develops without any pain whatever in the kidneys or their vicinity), but has the symptoms of nearly every other common complaint. Hundred of people die daily, whose burials are authorized by a physician's certificate as occurring from "heart disease," "apoplexy." "paralysis." "spinal complaint," "rheumatism," "pneumonia," and the other common complaints, when in reality it is from Bright's disease of the kidneys. Few physi-Bright's disease of the kidneys. Few physicians, and fewer people, realize the extent of this disease or its dangerous and insidious nature. It steals into the system like a thief, manifests its presence if at all by the commonest systems and fastens itself in the constitution before the victim is aware of it. It is tution before the victim is aware of it. It is nearly as hereditary as consumption, quite as common and fully as fatal. Entire families, inheriting it from their ancestors, have died and yet none of the number knew or realized the mysterious power which was removing them. Instead of common symptoms it often shows none whatever, but brings death suddenly, from convulsions, apoplexy or heart disease.

As one who has suffered and house he little.

As one who has suffered, and knows by bitter experience what he says, I implore every one who reads these words not to neglect the slightest symptom of kidney difficulty. No one can afford to hazard such chances.

I make the foregoing statements based upon facts which I can substantiate to the letter. The welfare of those who may possibly be sufferers such as I was is an ample inducement for me to take the sufferers such as I was is an ample inducement for me to take the step I have, and if I can successfully warn others from the dangerous path in which I once walked, I am willing to endure all the professional and personal consequences.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times symptoms of indigestion are present, flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very discassenable itching a figure of the control of th ducing a very disagreeable itching, after get-ting warm, is a common attendant. Blind, bleeding and itching piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's pile remedy, which acts directly upon the parts effected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching and effecting a permanent cure. Mr. Titus Richards, of Taliaferro, has an old horseman pistol which he captured during the late war. It was taken near Mannassas. Mr. Richards carried this pistol three years on his saddle and brought it home, where he keeps it as a relic. It is about fourteen inches long and shoots a bell as large as your finger. It has with it the same old leather belt and brass buckle that it had when he captured it.

Mrs. Henry Ford, of Cartersville, has an In-Mirs. Henry Ford, of Cartersville, has an Indian doll in glazed earthenware, highly colored and beautifully figured. It has been in Mrs. Ford's family seventy-six years and she can trace it back nearly one hundred and thirty years. It was the property of a little North Carolina boy who was killed by falling off, a wagon. The child used the doll or bottle to carry milk to school for his noonday lunch. His mother kept it for his sake until she was His mother kept it for his sake until she was very old, when it was presented to Mrs. Ford's grandmother, who at that time was a little girl of only five years herself. It is a rare relic and well worth preserving. It will hold perhaps a pint, and can be closed with a small stopper. 90 MAIN STREET, GLOUCESTER, MASS.,

April 16, 1885. Allcock's Porous Plasters have been used in our family for the last three or four years with very beneficial results. Previous to that time I had been subject to attacks of a severe pain in my left side. Hot cloths add liniments afforded temporary relief, but after a while the pain always returned. In the fall of 1880, after a very severe attack, I was advised by a friend to try an Allcock's Porous Plaster on my side which greatly benefitted me. After that I tried several kinds of plasters to see which was the best, and finally decided that Allcock's suited my case the best. I have worn them constantly on my side ever since, and have never been troubled with the pain, except when I left them off for a few days. We alway keep a supply in the house, and whenever a pain seizes any of us, in any part of the body we just apply an Allcock's Plaster, and can most heartily recommend them.

ATLANTA, GA., JANUARY 23, 1886.

Indications for the South Atlantic States, taken at 1 o'clock a. m.: Light local rains, followed by fair, colder weather; winds shift ing to northwest and north; generally higher barometer. East Gulf States: Fair weather, preceded on coast by local rains; winds generally northeasterly; coldor weather, followed in western portion by slight rise in temperature.

Atlanta and Her Future. We print this morning an interview with Colonel Maddox. Whenever Colonel Maddox has anything to say to the people of Atlanta it is sure to get their attention. What he says this morning is especially worthy of consideration.

There is no doubt that the present is an auspicious time to begin a movement for the benefit of Atlanta. Our city has suffered no more from the general depression than other cities in the country, but this is a live, progressive and active day. The city that does not go forward must go backward. Atlanta is surrounded by powerful, active and aggressive rivals. Every opportunity that she misses will be improved by them to her detriment and to their gain. The outlook is that the next four or five years will be years of great growth and expansion in the south. Atlanta must put herself in line for this movement, or she will be left behind. These are serious words, but they are demanded by the occasion. As to whether the project suggested by Colonel Maddox is the best to which Atlanta can turn, we are not sure. The purpose of his interview will be served if it succeeds in putting the people of Atlanta to thinking over the situation and making up their minds to do whatever is found to be best for Atlanta's future.

Was It Justifiable?

When a man murders his wife public sentiment, as a rule, is so strongly against him that it is useless to say anything in his be-

A recent case in New York may be regarded as exceptional. An Italian named Depolido killed his wife. He made no secret of his crime, but said that his wife was always praising her former husband to him. She drew invidious comparisons and spoke of her dead husband as a saint, while she took particular pains to remind Depolido that he was a miserable sinner.

In the course of time the Italian found this persecution unendurable. When he could stand it no longer he killed his tor-mentor. The case will sorely tax the intelligence of an average jury. It is not an easy matter to properly weigh the provocation received by the murderer. It must have been indescribably galling to him to have to listen day after day to the praises of his predecessor. Finally his temper reached the boiling point, and in a moment of madness he slew the partner of his bosom. The wretched man will doubtless have a rough road to travel, but it must be admitted that he was terribly tried.

The Irish Question.

The queen of England-speaking, course, for the cabinet-declares that she is resolutely opposed to any movement looking to the separation of Ireland. She also expresses a willingness to crush out rebellion in Ireland with an iron heel. She concludes with a promise to transfer various local acts of administration to councils in the various counties. That is all. The speech is not explicit. It does not say there shall be no such thing as home rule in home matters, and yet in the absence of any promise of that nature, the inference is that the cabinet has no intention of making the Irish people any concessions that look to self-government in even strictly Irish matters. Both parties are agreed that the union shall be maintained-that parliament, in other words, shall determine all imperial matters; but the Parnellites hope to obtain from one of the two parties the right to have home matters decided at home. It is very plain that the tories will make no such concession. The queen's speech does not, it is true, disclose their full programme, but every line relating to the Irish question is a damper to Irish hopes and Irish patriotism.

Mr. Parnell will naturally and necessarily have to look to the liberals for relief. Mr. Gladstone expressed the opinion on Thursday that whatever it may be necessary to do for Ireland should be done promptly. The condition of the island is very bad, indeed, and does not admit of great delay. It is very probable, therefore, that the government will soon be compelled to disclose its entire programme, and then we will be apt to know what the liberals are willing to do for Ireland. The outside world is in the dark now, and it is said that neither of the great leaders in parliament see daylight ahead. They are thought to be waiting to see how little the Irish people will accept, and how meanwhile, there is growing discontent and mutinous rumblings in the more wretched portions of the ill-governed island. The people are starving in some portions, and starving men are apt to become desperate, and to seek relief in riots and resistance to all law.

Mr. Parnell's remarks on Thursday were admirable. He pleaded for an admission that Ireland was entitled to home rule in some form, and for reasonable rents. He was firm, but moderate. He defended the nationalists against the charges of violence. The Irish cause is safe in the hands of a man who is calm and clear under all circumstances. Ireland has at last found a Deakshe has had plenty of Kossuths-and in one way or another, from one party or the other, he will wrest from England concessions that none of the orators and over-zealous patriots of the past could secure.

A Newspaper Audience. The crowd that gathers to hear Dr. Talmage in Brooklyn every Sunday, is one of the wonders of that town. The spectacle of two or three thousand people gathering Sunday after Sunday to hear one man preach, is indeed a matter for astonishment, and it is not strange that it should excite the comment of the reporters. But even such an imposing audience beomes insignificant by comparison, for, last Monday morning, Dr. Talmage preached through the columns of THE WEEKLY CON-TITUTION to an audience of more than a quarter of a million. THE WEBKLY CON-STITUTION of that date went into fifty-five thousand homes in this country, and if each copy was read by five different persons, (a ow estimate,) then Dr. Talmage and our other contributors, great and small, had an audience of more than 250,000, comprising the best people of the land.

An important feature of this audience is that it is continually widening and growing -continually spreading and increasing. The privilege of addressing such an audience as this, carries with it a responsibility which those who make THE WEEKLY CONSTITU-TION are not unmindful of." They are as keenly alive to the responsibilities as they are to the privileges, and it is their purpose to give THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION a vigor ous hold on the interest and sympathy of each and every member of the families into which it goes. It is their purpose to make it comprehensive and clean, a visitor in whose ample pages entertainment and instruction shall find a healthful and happy meeting-place. It is their purpose to take advantage of the opportunity which a large circulation gives to make their paper in some sort an educator-not in a dull and didactic way, but with home-like cheerfulness and good-humor.

It is something, indeed, to be able to encourage a hundred thousand young people who are looking forward to making their way in the world, and this and the other manifold opportunities that offer the conductors of THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION shall strive to take advantage of. These opportunities have not come unsought. They are the result of an earnest and honest effort to provide the people of this whole section with a weekly newspaper as comprehensive as any that the country affords. THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION has earned a place during the past year among the half-dozen really great weekly newspapers of the coun-It not only means to hold this position, but it intends, during the next twelve months, to push its way to the front of them all. ## The "Drummers" Decision.

The facts in the case recently decided in the United States supreme court were these: Samual A. Walling, a drummer for Cavanaugh & Co., of Chicago, went to Grand Rapids, Michigan, in 1883, and began to olicit orders for liquors to be shipped from Chicago to Grand Rapids according to orders given. The state of Michigan imposes a tax of $300 upon persons engaged in selling liquor in that state to be shipped from another state. Walling had no license to sell Chicago liquor in the state, and as soon as he began to take orders in Grand Rapids, he was arrested, brought before the police court, convicted, fined and imprisoned. He appealed to the state circuit court, where the decision of the police court was affirmed, and then he appealed to the state supreme court, where he was equally unsuccessful. The case was then carried to the United States supreme court, in which a decision was rendered last Monday reversing the decisions in Michigan. The opinion of the court was by Mr. Justice Bradley. The court simply decides "that a discriminating tax imposed by a state operating to the disadvantage of the products of other states when introduced into the first mentioned state is in effect a regulation in restraint of commerce among the states, and as such is a usurpation of the power conferred by the constitution upon the congress of the United States." This is the length and breadth of the decision. It goes no further.

The theory of the supreme court of Michigan was that the tax was imposed in exercise of the police power of the state in treating the troublesome liquor grestion. The United States supreme court practically said Michigan could exercise its police power in the case presented or in any other case, if it would take good care not to discriminate against the products of other states. In other words, a Detroit whisky drummer and a Chicago whisky drummer should be placed on a common footing in Grand Rapids. The one was taxed $300 and the other nothing at all, and this discrimination was fatal. Police powers must be exercised in an undiscriminative manner. The decision does not seem to abridge the police powers of a state, if they are exercised in a general way.

Secret Sessions. It is understood that the president, while he will refuse the right of the senate to demand his reasons for making removals, is, nevertheless willing to give these reasons voluntarily provided the senate, by abolishing secret sessions will show its willingness to make public the reasons which it has for rejecting appointments.

It is to be hoped that the senate will meet the president half way in this matter. If it is important that the president shall make public his reasons for making removals, it is equally important that the senate should make public its reasons for rejecting executive nominations.

This will be a step in the direction of doing away with secret sessions. A senate much the English people will grant. In the | representing American states has about as much reason for going into secret session the president has for wearing a crown. Let us have reform in regard to secret essions.

Bottled Up Towns.

The bottled up towns are becoming restive. Columbus is bottled up by the Central railroad; Nashville by the Louisville and Nashville company, and Knoxville by the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia road. All three are trying to break the shackles that restrain their industrial and commercial energies. Nashville is trying to build an independent line to the Cumberland coal fields, and Knoxville wants to meet the new Nashville road half way, on a strictly independent basis. Nashville is to build toward the west until it strikes the Cincinnati Southern, and Knoxville is to build towards the west until it hits the same point on the north-and-south trunk Columbus proposes to build until she strikes some other system than the one she

We hope all three towns will succeed, and that all other bottled-up towns will imitate their example. The south does not want bottled-up trade centers. Her towns should not be handicapped. They should have all the facilities and opportunities that the most favored towns enjoy, and then they should go to work to make themselves the means of magnetising and energizing all the intervening country into a new and more productive activity.

EX GOVERNOR CAMPBELL, of Missouri, in a ecent talk about Pulitzer, the editor of the New York World, said:

New York World, said:
"I remember when Joe was elected to the legislature, and also when he only lacked one vote of being expelled from that body. Pulitzer had within a few years come up from the position of a roustabout on a Mississippi steamboat to a private watchman. Then he became a restaurant waiter, and while occupying that position he formed the acquaintance of Carl Schurz, who made him a reporter of his Westliche Post. In this way Pulitzer got some influence in one of the German wards and was elected to the legislature. It was just at the time that the democrats reclaimed the state by electing B. Gratz. Brown governor. When Pulitzer took his seat he was about as could be seen anyweere. His nose looked almost as big as his face. He immediately became distinguished as the ugliest looking man who had ever occupied a seat in our legislature. He was as wward as he was ugly, and in consequence a great deal of few was ugly, and in consequence a great deal of few was ugly, and in consequence a great day he got into a difficulty with a country member over some trifling affair and a fight ensue I. The fellow got Pullizer down and was beating him about the head. Pullizer in the mean time got out his revolver and taking careful aim 1-hot his assailant through the big toe. The wounded man was laid up for a day or two and Pullizer was arrested. In the course of a week he was arraigned by the legislature to show cause why he should not be expelled. Finally a vote was taken and Pullizer, who was very unpopular, had not a fried to defend him. Over half the counties had been called and only three more votes were needed to expel him when I came in. Pullizer had a seat near me, and I noticed tears in his eyes. I felt sorry for the poor young man, and although I had but a slight acquaintance with him I proceeded to defend him. I addressed the speaker and told him I had been absent when the case was under consideration, and I demanded a reconsideration, which was grauted. Then I made a speech for the defense, in which I claimed that Pullizer had first been assaulted, and being a very young man to expel him might blight his prespects for life. Well, another vote was taken and Pullizer was acquitted. He came over to me, and putting his arms around me cried like a child. He said he would never forget what I had done for him, for if he had been expelled he had made up his mind to commit suicide. Well, ever since the fellow has always opposed me politically."

MRS. LANGTRY was not always a beauty. When she started out she was perfectly horrid. Blanche Roosevelt tells all about it. It appears that at the Lilv's first appearance in ondon, according to the veracious Miss Roosevelt, she was shy, wore a plain black silk and one rose in her hair, which was nutbrown and thick; her eyes were fine and her skin fresh and hardy, but her mouth and her waist were terrible, both as big as all outdoors. She spoke with a frightful provincial accent, and every word she uttered sent the company off into screams of laughter. Then she set to work on herself vigorously. She began by shaping in her waist, a hair dresser soon lightened the nut-brown of her hair to copper and brought the top of her head to the nape of her neck, and a fashionable dressmaker soon routed cheap black silks and Jersey-cut costumes. THE Chicago Herald, speaking of Bismarck's solution of the tramp problem, says:

The fact that a haystack that burned in Bavaria the other night contained twenty or more tramps, all of whom perished, suggests the idea that they may have been journeying toward the tramp's paradise which Bismarck has recently established in Westphalia. Under the iron rule of the present monarchy the people of Germuny have not prospered so well in material affairs as they have in a military sense, and the enormous number of tramps infesting the country amused the chancellor to hit upon the scheme of colonizing them where they might be made useful. If they will go to the tramp farm willingly they are assisted, and if they will not consent to go they are made to do so. Once there they are employed in agricultural pursuits, and under a strong military guard are rendered comparatively harmless. Although the Bismarckian rule will go into history as a brilliant one it will not escape the attention of the social philosopher that the condition of the people did not correspond with the outward glory of the empire. A governmental policy which creates tramps and then impresses them into a species of slavery is a device which ought not to last. Here in America we are filling the highways with wanderers, but we have not yet reached the point of herding them with soldiers. olution of the tramp problem, says:

DISCUSSING ENSILAGE. The Only Fodderthat Farmers Honor With an Annual Congress.

From the New York Sun. The fifth annual ensilage congress was held resterday in the Grand Central hotel, with the Hon. Orlando B. Potter in the chair. About 100 farmers occupied the morning and afternoon sesion in telling each other about their experience with ensilage and silos. Mr. Potter, in opening the congress, said:

In a short time, under the ensilage system, the fodder supply of the country would be doubled. It is a great thing for the western cattle raiser, for grass can be kept as well as corn. I am using more and more ensilage on my farm every year, and the more I use it the more I like it.

The opening address was read by George G. Smith, of St. Albans, Vt. Mr. Smith gave his persual experience with ensilage on his two farms. ongress, said:

conal experience with ensilage on his two farms at St. Albans. He said:

sonal experience with ensinge on his two tarms at St. Albans. He said:

I have fed my stock on envilage for the last six years, and today they are in splendid condition. From the seventy acres of land that I planted with corn I obtained last year 1,200 tons of ensilage. To make ensilage that will produce the best butter the corn should be planted in hills from four to six inches apart and then carefully cultivated. In this way we raised 27½ tons to the acre last year and hope to raise 40 tons next year. The total cost per ton of plowing, planting, cutting and putting in silos was seventy-seven cents per ton. The corn should be cut when it is beginning to glaze and the weather is dry.

After being put in the silos it should be carefully tramped down, especially around the edges, and then should be weighted so as to exclude the air. I use 220 pounds weight to the square inch. My ensilage is cut three-eighths of an inch in length. Mr. Edward Atkinson was then called upon. He said:

"My experience in silos is limited. When my at "My experience in silos is limited. When my attention was drawn to the subject some five or six years ago, I built two small silos of ten tons capacity, on the ensilage of which I keep my two family cows. Since building these silos I have studied the subject as an economist and statistican. I have concluded that if I were not an underwriter by profession I would establish a beef factory in the east and feed the eattle on ensilage."

The general opinion of the congress was that ensilage in its various forms is better than any other factory in the east and feed the cattle on ensilage. The general opinion of the congress was that ensilage in its various forms is better than any other kind of fodder for cattle. A gentleman from Pennsylvania said that he had used clover ensilage advantageously in feeding horses, and that it had a fine fruity flavor. He packed it in the silos dry. A gentleman from New Canaan, Conn., said that he had been unable to make good ensilage from clover, but that he had packed it wet. Other farmers said that they were breeding sheep on clover ensilage with good results. At the close of the afternoon session it was voted

Our Sea Islands

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer The famous sea islands off the coast of the 'arolinas and Georgia are becoming the summe caroinas and ceorgia are becoming the summer homes of the millionaire railroaders and manufacturers. Andrew Carnegie, the wealthy iron and steel manufacturer of Pennsylvania, has come into possession of the seat of General Greene on Cumberland island, the first of these islands above Fernandina. The palatial home of General Greene, 'Dungeness,' has been repaired, and an elegant mansion receted in the place of the large, square, four story brick mansion built some years after the close of the war of the revolution. This plantation comprises two thousand acres there remaining in other hands some eight thousand acres. Recently William K. Vanderbilt has purchased for $60,000 one of the chain of islands along this coast—that next Cumberland—which bears the name of Jeckyl island. This tract of land is nine miles in length and from one to two miles broad and abounds in game, both feathered and fourfooted. It is said this favored spot will be made a yachting rendezvous and a game preserve for a sporting club. The soil of these sea islands is very prolific of vegetation, and on them in the years preceding the civil war was grown the best long staple cotton the world ever produced. It seems a wrong to the world that such land should be taken out of the field of production and tied up for purposes of sport only. homes of the millionaire railroaders and manufac ashington Letter in New York Telegram. Miss Cleveland's receptions at the house are always very largely attended, but there are some members of society here who are never present. The fact that a certain set absolutely refuse to attend has been made the subject of some goesip here. The reason given by these ladies is somewhat unique. It seems that after each reception Miss Cleveland holds a five o'clock tea. Of course very few of those who attend the receptions are invited to remain to the tea. Those who are invited feel highly honored, and those who are not go away as mad as hornets. The peculiarity about the situation is in the fact that those who consider themselves to be affronted are unable to do anything about it. No one in social life can afford to such Miss Cleveland, and so there is no redress with the president's sister as mistress of redress with the president's sister as mistress of the situaicuse are always very largely attended, but ther

The Artesian Well.

Much has been said and written about our artesian well as to its durability, the origin of the water, whether produced by surface or seapage water, or from a stream coming from nobody knows

It is generally believed that the seas are the sources whence comes the earth's supply, of water, the evaporation from them filling the heavens with moisture which forms into clouds, and by the action of counter winds the water from these is precipitated to the earth. This process is continually going on in the dispensation of Providence, to water the earth and bless the land which the Lord God has given us.

If this theory be true, and sensible men do not doubt it, all the water in the earth comes from the clouds, watering the land abundantly for man's purposes. The lakes, rivers, creeks and branches tarrying off all the surplus which does not percolate the earth to supply the wants of man. The underground water can be obtained any and everywhere by digging for the same at greater or less depths, dependent upon the geological formation of the earth.

Now Atlanta is 166 feet above the level of the ources whence comes the earth's supply. of water less depths, dependent upon the geological forma-tion of the earth.

Now Atlanta is 1,050 feet above the level of the sea, and our artesian well is supplied with a stream of water 1,160 feet below the surface of the ground, consequently 110 feet lower than the surface of the Atlantic ocean. Hence we have a surface drainage for at least 300 miles or more in every direction from our well higher than the source from whence comes our supply, producing underground streams which will continue to flow perpetually, where the surface affording the supply is as great as that we have.

which will continue to flow perpetually, which will continue to flow perpetually, as that we have.

Our chemists who have analyzed the water of our well pronounce it pure, beyond a doubt, but say there is a little trace of salt in it, and for this reason pronounce it surface water from the immediate vicinity of the well. Preposterous! The earth is filled with all the various salts and minerals known to man, and water in its course underground coming in contact with these substances is always more or less affected by the same. The mineral spring of Atlanta bubbled out its chalybeate water before there was a blacksmith shop in the town, much less a foundry. Lime was found in most of the wells in the eastern portion of the city when first settled—before Mr. Ladd or anyone sie had al lime yard within our preceincis. In some of our surface wells traces of sulphur are found. I suppose they get it from the drug stores, according to our chemists. Away with such stuff! Harness upour well, send its vivifying and exhilarating waters to the people of Atlanta, and millions unborn will bless the men who projected and dug a well which shall give them for all coming time a never-failing stream of pure water.

CONSTITUTIONALS.

General Gossip and Editorial Short Caught on the Run. Republics are by tradition unkind nursers There is much in the capital of the greatest republics to bear out this belief.

Of the various works of art which have been n chased from time to time to adorn the public ings and parks of Washington, there is not or d of more than ordinary value. The scores of bronz marble statues in the parks; the many ca in the capitol and department buildings for collection, which, in the aggregate, has cos lions of dollars. Yet if they were put up at a tion and sold on a basis of artistic worth, I if they would bring one tenth of their origin the government paid from ten to thirty thouse dollars each that at the time their purchase would not have bro in any other market in the world half the price

This remarkable discrepancy between the actual cost and the real value of many of these "artistic monstrosities is due to the fact that the govern ment and the various civic and military organizations in their commendable efforts to adorn th city and its grand public structures adopt a method which could hardly have any other result

They do not select works of art; they have them orate some great historical scene a statue or painting is desired. An appropriation, usually liberal one, is voted by congress for this purpose. committee is appointed to select the artist and pass upon the merits of his work. Thes committees usually consist of two or three politicians, with perhaps an army or navy officer of prominence, who never tried to look critically at ship and partisan bias often play an important pa n determining the selection. and no matter how atrocious it may be is almo

The eight historical paintings on walls of the capitol rotunda cost almost a hundred thousand dollars. The great monetary value and were an unfailing source f revenue. This freak of nature attracted the at ention of the whole world. But I scarcely think a offspring of the painter's imagination could ever be of much account either as a curiosity or a work of art. So, too, a real living woman with three wel developed hands might make the for-tune of a circus or a dime museum. But a portrait like one of those in the rotunda where a young flady has, to all reason able wisdom, been endowed by the liberal artis with three marriage appendages, is certainly not enhanced in value by the departure from nature's simple old plan. This queer effect is to be seen in the group surrounding the "Father of His Country in the remarkable painting, beneath which is the inscription, "Washington surrendering his commission as commander in chief.

About the time of Thackeray's last visit to Washington an equestrian statue of Jackson had just been erected in LaFayette square directly opposite the white house. It seems to have especially of fended the fine artistic sense of the great satirist and many stories are told of his trenchant criticisms upon it. One of the best is told by him-self in 1861. I quote his own words:: "Opposite that famous old have a grateful memory, they have set up an eques trian statue of General Jackson, by a self-taught American artist of no inconsiderable genius and skill. At an evening party a member of congress seized me in a corner of the room and asked me i I did not think this was the finest equ in the world. How was I to deal with this plain question, put to me in a corner? I was bound to reply, and accordingly said that I did not think it was the finest statue in the world. "Well, sir," says the member of congress, "but you must remember that Mr. M- had never seen statue when he made this!"

I mildly and timerously suggested that it might ot have done him any harm if he had seen one, nor was any man more willing to own his defects, or more modest regarding his merits than the sculptor himself, whom I met subsequently. But ington paper next day about the impertinence of criticism and offensive tone of arrogance which Englishmen adopted towards men and works of genius in America. One day Thackeray and Charles Sumner were walking through Lafayette square on their way to call at the white house Thackeray had never seen the statue, and as they approached it Sumner tried to engage him tion and to shield the patriotic statue from the shafts of his caustic wit. But his effort was of no avail. Thackeray's glance took in the statue, and instantly interrupting Sumner, he asked : "Charles, where are the rockers?" Sumner was fond of telling this story as illustrative of Thackeray's keen sense of humor and quick powers of compactison.

The collector at once telegraphed to Washington, asking that the steamer Wolcott be sent in search of it. The orders reached here on the 10th instant, and the revenue cutter left on a cruise, accom-panied by Collector Beecher. She arrived Thursday at the bay and anchored. The col-lector and eight men from the steamer went ashore to the cannery, which was in charge of two men. Fourteen barrels said to contain furs, landed on last trip made by the steamer Idaho, were opened and found to contain 3,012 pounds of prepared opium, valued at $45,090. The opium was taken aboard the cutter. There is no doubt but that smuggling has been carried on for years. It is evident that some smuggler has exposed the business to the authorities. Collector Beecher's (son of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher) moieties will be about $25,000.

On more than one occasion youthful beauty in tights of rare loveliness merited the title "drunk and disorderly" for having waded too deep in the stream, and on one occasion at least a hard working waiter with a beautiful French accent was licked for vowing that a young and noble customer had paid for only five out of six bottles ordered.

Colonel Tom Ochiltree, the pride of the lone star state, was at the ball. He beamed upon the throng from a big proscenium box, where youth and beauty formed a frame around his anly form, and later he walked cautiously, with wise and legislative tread, across the slippery floor, shaking hands with those whom he knew. Still later the legislative part of the tread was abandoned, and the colonel wandered as nimbly and blithely as anybody wherever fickle inclination led him. At about 4 o'clock in the morning he was walking along the main corridor, perfectly happy, it seemed, his steps leading from the staircase, which yawned an invitation to climb up to the wine room. He was about to turn to the left and go upon the floor, when a human being in a swallow tail coat and apparently under high press ure ahot down the wine room stairway. a wild dash through the throng, and with ter-rible harshness, seized the doughty colonel by HAUGHTY INDIGNATION.

The look of haughty indignation that illumined the colonel's face changed to wild horror and boundless rage when the waiter, in a very French voice pitched in the highest kind of a key, demanded $4. The crowd at once recognized that as the amount of gold that must be told out by him who would buy a bottle, and gathered round. There were a few deep breaths, a swelling of the chest, and then if Texas had been there she would have been proud of her son. The colonel lifted his head proudly into the air like the desert lion that spies another desert lion that he thinks he can lick. The colonel's eyes looked far over the top of the waiter's head, only coming down once in a while to sweep that wight's person with a blazing glance of sorrowful contempt.

The colonel gazed in the eyes of the fellow men who surrounded him in search of sympathy. It was not there. The wild young men danced fancy steps that indicated much inter-hal glee, and the big policeman was rapidly becoming impressed with the sentiment which he muttered over and over again that a party with such clothes ought to be ashamed to do a bard working man out of four bones. At this critical moment a ray of hope shot athwart the colonel's gloomy horizon in the person of a young man with a big diamond nestling in the folds of a red necktie, a black mustache, a large nose with a graceful sweep, and an ath-lectic build. He sailed through the crowd, pouring out wild astonishment, and alighted on the ing out wild astonishment, and alighted on the waiter like a hawk for a chicken, and struck him upon the arm, ordering him in imperious tones to release his hold. With the dogged energy of an old chicken sitting upon young ones, the waiter hung on. But the young avenger's arm, drawn tightly around his neck, prevented him from breathing, and an energetic pounding of his arm made him so uncomfortable that he at last let for. Then the comfortable that he at last let go. Then the young man thundered forth:

"That's Tom Ochiltree; he's worth $150,000, and he's my friend." The policeman's club, which had been struggling te reach the colonel's head, or that of his young defender, obeyed the mysterious influence of "pull," and, as the needle turns toward the north, it turned toward the count tenance of the unhappy waiter, while the policeman, no longer the laboring man's friend, ordered him to shut up and go home.

THIRTY-NINE MEN DEAD. Another Terrible Mine Disaster in West Virginia.

NEWBERG, W. Va., January 22 .- All of the thirty-nine coal miners caught in last night's mine explosion are dead. Newberg is a town of about eight hundred inhabitants, and as a majority of the dead men had families, the town is a scene of desolation that beggars description.

Four bodies were found at the foot of the shaft. Two of them were father and son. No other bodies have yet been recovered. Foreother bodies have yet been recovered. Foreman Carroll, an intelligent and observing man, said: "There was nothing the matter with the air in the mine. It was good, and you may judge what the men thought of it when they could go down at seven in the morning and come up at four in the afternoon. Some times they would sleep down there four and five hours. I don't know what caused this but don't think the know what caused this, but don't think the company can be blamed, nor do I think there is that disposition. Burned to Death.

PARIS, January 22 .- A number of cabinet factories in Belleville were destroyed by fire last night. Retreat from the buildings, by way of the starcases, was cut off, and many workmen and their wives and children were compelled to jump from the windows. Others were rescued by means of ropes. All those who leaped from the windows received severe injuries. Several bodies were taken from the Frozen Oranges Seized.

New York, January 22.—Health Officer Edson today seized several hundred boxes of frozen oranges, poured carbolic acid over them and dumped them at the offal dock. They had been frozen in transit from Florida. Frozen oranges are dangerous to health because of the mould between the segments of the pulp after the oranges are frozen, and because of the im-pregnation of the whole fruit with the essential oil of the skin.

Killed by a Fellow Student.

MERIDIAN, Miss., January 22.—At Cooper's institute school, about twenty miles from this place, on Wednesday night, a young man named Richardson, from Louisiana, was fatally named Richardson, from Louisiana, was fatally shot. A difficulty occurred about a month ago between Richardson and a fellow student named Kyle. While the students were at supper Wednesday night, Kyle, without allusion to the former trouble, drew a pistol and shot Richardson, who died soon afterwards. Kyle escaped, but is being pursued by officers.

Near the town of Lancaster, Mr. W. P. Caskey recently killed 450 rats in one day. He was assisted by a pack of hounds. What a sumptions Chinese least was thus wasted!

A large number of tax-payers of Greenville have signed a petition asking for a removal of the courthouse. The News says that nearly everybody is in favor of it. house. The News says that nearly every says favor of it.
Gold mining in Lancaster county is booming. The Review says that Superintendent Splisbury, of the famous Haile gold mine, passed through the town of Lancaster a few days since on his way to the Charlotte mint, with his pockets filled with gold brickstaken in a few weeks from the mine. The precious metal is panning out satisfactorily.

The Lancaster papers report that nearly every day horses and mules are sold in that town to satisfy uppaid bills for supplies got last year. Prices range low.

day horses and mules are sold in that town to satisfy unpaid bils for supplies got last year. Prices range low.

2 The town council of Rock Hill has elected Captain C. J. Pride town marshal at a salary of $40 a month. That thrifty town is now well policed.

The Lancaster Ledger, of yesterday, says:

"The barn of Mr. Bartleft Sims, being about four miles northeast of town, was consumed by fire on Monday night, 18th instant, together with his entire crop of corn, wheat and potatoes. No insurance. Mr. Sims was awakened about 11 o'clock by his dogs barking furiously, and on looking out discovered his barn in a blaze. By strenuous efforts whis dwelling and stables were saved. The fine was undoubtedly of incendiary origin."

Many persons were apprehensive that the extreme cold weather of last week would be productive of disastrous injury to grape vines and fruit trees. The Greenville News of today, in speaking about this matter, says:

"Fagan Martin, who grows grapes and peaches extensively, four miles from town, and studies the vines and trees carefully, came in in high good humor on yesterday and announced that the cold snap had not hurt anything. Even the scuppernong, which is a semi-tropical grape, has escaped serious injury, and Mr. Martin brought to the News office several peach branches and dissected the buds to demonstrate that they are full of life and unharmed. His report is generally confirmed."

THE UNION POINT AND WHITE PLAINS

A New Road to be Built-What Captain Harry Hill Says.

The Georgia railroad is about to have a new ributary, and Captain Harry Hill is the spirit of the new enterprise, which will connect Union Foint and White Plains. But little has been said of the new road, the building of which is now considered cettain. Captain Hill has been steadily working in its interest, and through his exertions working in its interest, and through his exertions it is probable that arrangements will soon be made for its hasty construction. The citizens of White Plains are very much interested in it, and have raised a handsome sum to secure it.

A representative of THE CONSTITUTION SAW Captain Hill last night at the Kimball, and in reply to queries concerning the project, he said:

"I regret that any publicity has been given the undertaking—not that we intend to conceal anything that might interest the public, but I had entertained an ambition to almost effect the work before notifying the papers, but as mention has been made I shall state briefly the outlines of our intenticts. Messrs. John Hart, of Union Point, and W. B. Lowe, of Atlanta, have undertaken the enterprise. The road will be 14½ miles in length. 1½ miles of which will traverse the Georgia railroad tracks. We will run from White Plains, Ga., intersecting the Georgia railroad 1½ miles west of Union Point. We shall operate convict labor. The line will be independent, but being a valuable tributary to the Georgia railroad company the natural presumption is that Major Green will do what he can tohelp it.

The line will traverse one of the best agricultural

The line will traverse one of the best agricultural sections in the the state, and the scheme is so feasible and practical that you may rest assured that unless something unforseen occurs, this little rail read will be completed by the first of June, 1886."

Distress Among the Chinese.

VICTORIA, B. C., January 22.—The distress among the Chinese is appalling. Many of them are begging, but most of them are stealing and housebreaking. The mayor has informed the Chinese merchants here that they must contribute to the support of their starving countrymen. It has been proposed to establish soup kitchens to relieve the prevailing distress. Germany for Mono-Metalism.

Berlin, January 22.—Herr Schaltz, the Prussian finance minister, declared in the reischtag today that the imperial government would uphold mono-metalism. He explained that he was not a fanatical partisan of the gold standard, and could sympathise with the sur ferers in their efforts to raise the value of si ver, but the question was an international one and must be treated accordingly.

THE CHICAGO MARKET. Features of the Speculative Movement

Grain and Produce.

Special to The Constitution.

CHICAGO, January 22—Cables came in stronger this morning, noting an advance of one penny per cental for India wheat at Liverpool, which was ac-cepted as strong argument by the bulls, and, with continued light receipts at all points, the temper in continued light receipts at all points, the temper in wheat on 'change here turned quite strong today, and before the close of trading became buoyant when compared to the depression of the preceding days of this week. May began at 85c, quickly ladvanced to 85½c broke off several times to 85½c, advanced to 86½c and closed at 86c at 1 o'clock, closing at 86½c in the afternoon. The later advance was based on a report that elever boat loads had been taken for export at New York.

Receipts of corn were smaller, and with more throating to boat all futures showed mere strength. disposition to buy, all futures showed more strength May option advancing to the in the afternoon.

FOR DEFENDANT.—In the city court yester-day a verdict in the Broyles case was made for the defendant.

FOUND GUILTY.—Yesterday in the superior court Leonard Ratteree was found guilty of assault with intent to murder. The jury was only out a short time. Sentence was suspended.

A "FILL AH LOO" BIRD .- Mr. J. L. Brown. contracting freight agent of East Tennessee road, will be in the city today, and will bring with him a strange bird known as the Fill ah

THORNTON HAPPY. — Colonel Marcellus Thornton was out with his friends yesterday, and looked happy over his victory in his recent legal contest. The colonel says he will not invest in new printing material.

She is Quite Low.—Mrs. Jones, mother of Mr. W. O.Jones, the liveryman, is dangerously ill at her residence on East Peters street. Mrs. Jones's many friends will hear this news with sorrow and hope for her early and complete recovery. plete recovery,

SENT TO JAIL.—Yesterday O. C. Latham, of Milton county, was before Commissioner Haight, charged with violating the internal revenue laws. Deputy Marshal Buice proved that Latham was guilty, and in default of bond he was sent to jail. A SAD DEATH .- Mrs. Mary Steward, wife of Judge John B. Steward, of Decutur, died at her home yesterday at 12 o'clock, after a pro-tracted illness. Her remains will be buried in Decatur cemetery tomorrow morning, from the residence on Sycamore street. HIS MOTHER DEAD.—Detective Bedford re-ceived a telegram early yesterday morning an-nouncing the death of his mother at her home in Marietta. The detective left soon after receividg the message to be present at the funeral. He will be absent three or four days.

THE PATROL WAGON.—The patrol wagon will make its appearance about the first of next month. The wagon is being built in the city, and will be a handsome piece of work when rolled out. A pair of large, fine horses will be purchased as soon as the wagon is completed.

HE LOST A FINGER.-Frank Snyder, a car outpler on the Central railroad, had the fore finger on his left hand crushed off at the second joint yesterday while coupling cars near the Forsyth street crossing. The finger was crushed between two bumpers and was amputated at the second joint.

HIS RESIDENCE BURGLARIZED.—Night be-fore last a burglar entered R, E. Caldwell's residence in West Eud and carried away considerable wearing apparel and some jewelry. The burglary was detected yesterday morning and reported at police headquarters by the marshal of West End.

WANTS A DIVORCE.-L. P. Sewell yesterday filed a bill in the superior court praying for a total divorce from his wife, Jane Sewell, whom he charges with infidelity. He claims that he has always been a faithful and affectionate husband, but that his wife has been untrue in many instances. Too Young to Jug .- In the superior court roo Young to Jug.—In the superior court yesterday Henry Wyatt, a nine-year-old negro boy, was found guilty of larceny from the house, but owing to his being under age he was discharged. Wyatt is a bad negro for one of such tender years. The last pull he made was for a three hundred dollar check and fifty dollars in money. He is an ugly looking little make.

CONVICTED OF PERJURY .- Carrie Ross and Fannie Tolbert, soiled doves of the colored persuasion, and of the Decatur street notoriety, were vesterday found suity of perjury in the persussion, and of the Decatur street notoriety, were yesterday found guilty of perjury in the superior court. Several weeks ago, it appears, the two girls did some reckless awearing in a case where Charlie Burke, colored, was being prosecuted for selling liquor on the Sabbath. In this case sentence was suspended.

A FIRE ALARM.—Early yesterday morning an alarm of fire was rung in from box 15, located at the junction of Peachtree and Broad streets. The alarm was caused by an incipient fire in Colonel W. R. Phillips' house, No. 39 Forsyth street. The fire was located in a trunk in a servant's room. The department responded to the call, but when it arrived the fire was out. The damage was very light. The cause of the

HE BROKE A LEG.—Yesterday afternoon J.

I. Howard, a young carpenter, fell from a caffold and broke his right leg just above the ankle. Howard was working on a new building, No. 97 Brick street. While walking along the scaffold'a plank gave way and he dropped to the ground and upon a pile of rubbish. The fractured leg was attended to by Dr. Green. The injured man was taken to his home on Greene Form steep.

Another Gentleman Declines.-Captain Dave Wyly, whose name has been mentioned in connection with the race of police commission, says that he will not consent to the use of his name as a candidate because he does not want the position and cannot accept if elected. The friends of J. J. Barnes, the wholesale commission merchant on Forsyth street, are new pushing his name before the general coun-cil as a candidate for the position.

HE IS IMPROVING .- Will Thompson, the young photographer who was sent to the in-sane asylum at Milledgeville, is improving slowly. His kinsman, Mr. Oscar Ballard, receives a letter every two or three days from Dr. Powell, the superintendent of the asylum. The last letter, received yesterday, says that Thompson continues to improve very slowly. His recent escape from the asylum, however, has been productive of considerable harm. Previous to that time Thompson grew better very appidly, but while he was out he became quite violent again and now grows better slowly.

REFUSED TO PAY.—James Bowen and Mrs. Nancy Bowen yesterday brought a bill in equity against S. H. Phelan. In November last, the bill claims, S. H. Phelan made a trade with Mr. and Mrs. Bowen for a lot of land in the fifteenth district of DeKalb county. He paid $10, part purchase money, leaving a balance of $1,240. Mr. Phelan took a receipt for the $10 paid. This receipt closed the terms of agreement, and the balance of the purchase money was to be paid upon execution of titles to same. When the titles were drawn Mr. Phelan declined to accept the titles or pay the balance. The complainants pray that the defendant be required to perform said contract and that the same be decreed and ordered.

They Have Gone—T. H. Gappard, chief of REFUSED TO PAY .- James Bowen and Mrs.

THEY HAVE GONE.—T. H. Gappard, chief of police of Birmingham, and Detective Horner left Atlanta early yesterday morning with John Dorsey, Bradford Dorsey, Bella Dorsey and Della Minion, the four darkeys who were arrested in Atlanta a few days ago, charged with burglarizing a resibence in Birmingham. The darkies were all securely chained, and their escape is almost impossible. Sandford Thomas, the Atlanta darkey, who secreted the Birmingham darkies and the stolen property, was taken back with the gang. It is hardly probable that any of the crowd will visit Atlanta again in the near future. Before leaving Atlanta one of the Dorseys confessed his guilt, and told just how the burglary was committed.

WE MUST ACT.

COLONEL MADDOX SAYS ATLANTA NEEDS A BOOM.

He Suggests That the Citizens Take Hold of the Geor-gia Midlard and Build It-If They Do Not There Will be Trouble-A Highly Inter-csting Talk With a Business Man.

Yesterday a Constitution man met Colonel R. F. Maddox, and asked him what he thought of the situation in Atlanta: Said Colonel

"The time has come when Atlanta must do something. We have always been big enough and active enough to overcome any emergency that threatens the city, and we have often been threatened. As we have conquered everything else, I am sure we can conquer the depression that now threatens Atlanta. The eeling is general among the people that something must be done to start her on the road of progress again. Just what this is the public has not yet ageed, but whenever the proper project is laid before them the money will be forthcoming to put it through."

"I understand you think there is yet some chance to build the Georgia Midland railroad from here to Columbus?" said the reporter.

Colonel Maddox replied: "As regards the prospect, I can't say, but I am satisfied that if that road could be built it would certainly be of great benefit to this city. Atlanta is standing as still as the Stone mountain, and I am perfectly satisfied in my own mind that we must look to other resources at once for continued prosperity, or we will go backward instead of forward."

'Hasn't the line from Columbus been agreed upon by the way of Griffin in the direction of

"I don't know how far the enterprise by that route has progressed. There is one thing I feel confident of, however, if we are too late to turn the road this way, we might at least build a road to Greenville to connect with the road from Greenville to Columbus. I feel that the pecessity of some important move is upon us, if we would continue to advance."

"Why wasn't the stock taken last summer?"
"In the first place, many of our citizens, thought it would be built, and certainly come thought it would be built, and certainly come to Atlanta without their aid, but in this you see they were mistaken. This idea kept many from taking stock that otherwise might have done so. It may be proper to add also, that done so. It may be proper to add also, that many of our citizens were out of the city at that time. The importance of building that road is much greater now to the citizens of Atlanta than it was then. There is quite a railroad building boom in Georgia now. Rome is pushing forward rapidly a road to Car.ollton; that will take from us some of our most important trade. Macon is building a road across to Covington and will not likely stop there and many other roads are in contemplaacross to Covington and will not likely stop there, and many other roads are in contemplation. I expect to see more roads are in contemplation. I expect to see more roads built in the next two years, than have ever been built in two years before in the history of Gorgia."

"Do you think this road to Columbus would be a good investment?"

"I ce tainly do." It passes through a better country than either the Georgia railroad or the West Point road, and the stocks and bonds of these roads pay a handsome interest and has ever done so. I am perfectly familiar with the country through which this road would pass, having been raised near the contemplated route; and I sm clearly satisfied that it is the best undeveloped country that is accessible to best undeveloped coun'ry that is accessible to At anta."

"Won't you take the lead and try to get the stock taken?"
"No, sir; I can't take the care and responsibility, and don't want any office, but I am willing to put some money in it, and would expect to realize interest on it. This is no Kimball house investment either, where we collected neither principal nor interest; still I think our investment in that enterprise was a good one. Maddox, Rucker & Co. did subscribe $1,000 to build this road and will now double the subscription if necessary to complete the road. I believe there was about $25,000 subscribed by our citizens, and I think it probable that it could be revived and enlarged by the same parties, to say nothing of the new subscribers that might come in. Many claim that it would benefit cotton men more than anybody else. This is a mistake. It will benefit all the different branches of trade in Atlanta alike. So far as Kimball house investment either, where we branches of trade in Atlanta alike. So far as taking the lead in this enterprise, is con-cerned, I will say that it is a matter for every citizen, who has the welfare of the city at heart to take an active interest in it, and not one more than another. Let every person sub-scribe to the extent of his means, and the subscription needn't be necessarily large from an one when all take an interest in it."

"Were you not chairman of the railroad meeting when it was held here last August?" "I was and think we made a great mistake

"I was and think we made a great mistake when we failed to join the Columbus delegation and put the road through as we might have done at that time."

"How much money should be subscribed?"
"If $75,000 was subscribed and spent in building the road; commencing at this end, I am satisfied then, with plenty of cheap money in the east, seekwith plenty of cheap money in the east seeking investment, bonds could be placed and the road could be built if backed up by our enterprizing citizens. It is a reflection upon the well earned reputation of the citizens of Atlanta to say that the road can't be built, if it is important that it should be, and I think all admit that fact. The legislature at it; last ses-sion passed a special act to allow county convicts from any county to work on that road, which might be beneficial in building it. If we take hold of this road as it should be done, it would give Atlanta a boom that she stands greatly in need of at this time. I don't like to admit it, but feel confident that something ought to be done speedily to advance the interests of the city."

"Have you any plan by which the feeling of the people could be ascertained?"
"I have none whatever. It is no new question, and it has been discussed at length and all understand i."

Colonel Maddox is very much in earnest, and his views will be read with interest. He is one of Atlanta's best citizens, and all that he says will have weight with the public.

SENDING OUT SEED.

What is Being Done at the State Agricultural Department. There is a good deal of life and activity about the agricultural department, and the outlook promises even more than is now seen there every day.

The demand for tobacco seed is as large as ever. Every mail brings on an average fity applications for them, and these applications are attended to as rapidly as they come in. The general opinion of the applicants, as set forth in their letters, is that cotton is no longer forth in their letters, is that cotton is no longer king in Georgia, and that the crown will have to go to some other product. Although the crop of cotton in this state was large last year, the quality was poor in consequence of the bad weather, and prices have not been satisfactory. As a general thing the farmers raised enough corn to carry them through to the next crop, but are out of money as, it took all that they got for their cotton to pay their fertilizer notes and satisfy debts made for provisions. There seems to be a strong feeling in favor of planting diversified crops, and making tobacco one of the leading products.

FULLY A THOUSAND PACKAGE of seed have already been sent out, all of them upon applications, and that is the only way that they can be procured, as the commissioner that they can be procured, as the commissioner desires to furnish seed to only such persons who will give the planting of tobacco a fair and square trial. He does not want to see the seed wasted by getting into the hands of anyone who will not plant it.

A registration book is kept, in which is recorded every package of seed sent out by the department, and to whom sent. Captain J. W. Murphy is attending to the distribution of the seed, and is pushing the work as rapidly as possible, so that all applicants will get them in time to ensure an early plenting of the crop. The manual will probably be delivered by the printer to the commissioner today, as well as the supplimental crop report. These publicaone who will not plant it.

while sent out at once, as they are in great demand.

While the work of distributing to-bacco seed is going on other seed are coming in rapidly to be sent out in a similar manner. Five bushels of sent out in a similar manner. Five business of watermelon seed of the variety known as the Kolb Gem variety have been received at the department, and yesterday one hundred bushels of peanuts or "goobers," of a Spanish variety, said to be very prolific, were delivered at the department. It is said that this variety will produce three hundred bushels to the acre on ordinary sail and that about a peck of them ordinary soil, and that about a peck of them will plant an aere. A large quantity of cotton seed and ten pounds of Orinoco tobacco seed, which seems to be more in demand than any other variety of tobacco, have been ordered. Commissioner Henderson and his assistants are doing all that they can to give the farmers of the state an opportunity to not only diversify their crops, but to supply them with the best varieties of seed to accomplish that end. HE SAT DOWN.

And Then He Got Sat Down Upon-Patrolman Holland's Rest.

Nearly everybody in Atlanta knows Newt Holland, the policeman.

He is the best natured and happiest member of the force. He sings well, laughs loud, talks incessantly and never tires of doing his duty. But Patrolman Holland is in trouble.

Years ago when he was a boy, long before he had ever seen a policeman, Patrolman Holland got a stone bruise on his left heel. The stone bruise was an obstinate one, and as the man grew, the stone bruise grew. Night before last when the Patrolman was on duty on Alabama street, the stone bruise began to Alabama street, the stone bruise began to pain him, and in order to obtain relief, he was compelled to sit down. It is against the rules of the department to sit down on duty, pro-vided you are discovered. No member of the force knows the rules better than Patrolman Holland, and no one knows better how to avoid detection. The Gate City National bank was on the patroiman's heat and to it he went. He obtained a chair and sat down, but before he was resting well Captain Manley walked in on him. The patrolman looked up. He knew that a case against him was inevitable. He eyed the captain a second, and said:

"All right, cap; just watching the vault in here. Cohen's safe was blowed 'cause it wasn't

In a few minutes he returned to his beat whistling, and when he went off duty night before last he was banded a small note asking him to appear before the board of police com-missioners Friday night.

Last night the board met. Commissioners Fox, English, Goldsmith and Stephens were present. The charges were read and the patrol-man entered a plea of guilty. Captain Manley told how he found the patrolman and then Patrolman Holland told about the stone bruise and said he had to have rest. "Were you in the army?" asked Commis-sioner English.

"Oh, yes," was the answer.
"Did that stone bruise hurt then?"
"Oh, sometimes my spur would hurt it. You see, captain, I belonged to a critter company."
"Did you ever sit down while on duty before?" asked Commissioner Goldsmith "Oh, yes; but this is the first time I ever got caught. See?"

"Ever break any other rule?" asked Commissioner Stephens.

"Not that the board knows of," answered the patrolman as he winked at the chief.
"Were you on Alabama street the night Cohen's safe was blowed?" asked Commissioner

Fox. "Yos, Doc, but the lights went out on us that Patrolman Holland's testimony was rich and kept the commissioners smiling. He promised to break up every chair in town if not dis-charged, and the commissioners gave him a

They Are to Be Here in April—Arrangements For Their Reception. Moody and Sankey are coming in April, and extensive preparations are being made to celebrate the event.

Celebrate the event.

Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock the committee of arrangements, which consists of the ministers of the city, and one layman from every church in Atlants, held a meeting at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian association, for the purpose of perfecting a permanent organization, and to hear the report of a committee appointed to correspond with Mr. Moody and ascertain whether he could not come to Atlanta in April as well as in March.

The committee organized by the election of J. W. Harle, permanent chairman, and W. H.

were perfected, and if Lecessary until
THE ARRIVAL OF MOODY AND SANKEY.
As yet nothing has been done in the way preparing for their reception, or in arranging a suitable place in which to hold the meetings.

It is more than probable that some large cotton warehouse will be secured for the meeting and fitted up in such a way as to accom-modate the large crowds that it is expected will attend them. It is believed that there will be a grand outpouring of the citizens of Atlanta at every meeting, and that, no matter what will be the extent of the accomn no vacant space will be found at any of them.

Moody and Sankey have agreed to.
HOLD TWO SERVICES DAILY,
one in the afternoon and another in the evening, and an effort will be made to get them to hold morning services in addition. It is pro-posed that one of the meetings will be for men only and the other for women only.

Moody and Sankey will be in Chattanooga next week, and after holding services there for several days, will go to Nashville, Menphis and then take a southwestern tour through Texas, returning by way of New Orleans, Mo bile. Montgomery, so as to get here in April in time to fill their dates. At the next meeting of the committee some definite arrangements may be agreed upon which will be announced.

MATTIE ADAMS ARRESTED.

A Negro Woman Arrested Because She Harbored Thieves—She is Bound Over. Mattie Adams, a colored woman who be-lengs to one of the s'cieties, was arrested yesterday and given a cell in the city prison.

The woman is charged with receiving stolen goods and harboring thieves.

When the gang from Birminghrm reached

Atlanta two of them went to Mattie Adams's Atlanta two of them went to Mattie Adams's house. The detectives traced them to the house, but when they started in the woman slammed the door in their faces and refused to let them in. This enabled the thieves to escape for the time. Yesterday, after the Birmingham officers had gone off with the prisoners, Officer Green, in accordance with instructions from Chief Connolly, went before a justice of the peace and swore out, a warrant. a justice of the peace and swore out a warrant charging the woman with receiving stolen goods. He then went to her house and arrest-ed her. In searching the house, the officer found one hundred dollars. The woman obfound one hundred dollars. The woman objected to him taking charge of it, saying that it belonged to a society which she had organized and of which she was the treasurer. After the woman was locked up some of her friends employed an attorney who had the prisoner produced before Judge Landrum on a writ of habeas corpus. The charge against her was fully and carefully investigated and the woman was required to give a hundred dollar bond to the city court to answer the charge in the warrant. She gave the bond and was released.

LABOR IS RESPECTABLE. Mr. Sam Inman Tells How He Was Brought

"You quoted me wrong in your interview on industrial education," said Mr. S. M. Inman to the reporter, yesterday. "You made me say 'It will make labor respectable,' when my idea always has been that labor is highly respectable. We were brought up with that idea, my brothers John, Hugh and myself. My father was a merchant and lived on a large farm near the village.

Hugh and myself. My father was a merchant and lived on a large farm near the village. We had a very happy boyhood and had our share of the pleasures of a country boy's life—horses, dogs. guns, etc., at leisure hours—but our father believe it was not only respectable for boys to work at the plow and hoe, but it was desirable, and not only desirable, but essential. He had an old fashioned method, dating back to the days of Solomon, teaching a boy that work was an essential

I used to think he could find more things about a farm for a boy to do, than any man I ever saw; especially when it would have been so much pleasanter to have gone hunting or fishing, or to have loafed around town with the other boys. But it's all right and we are none the worse of' for it. I only hope I can implant in my boys, as firmly, the idea that work is respectable and idleness viclous, as he did in us.

When S. W. Beall, sergeant singnal corps U. S. army, this city, received these words of warning from old man Hazen yesterday afternoon he justled up to the top of the custom house and When THE CONSTITUTION'S weather man entered the signal office he said.

"Coming? "Yes, she's coming," was the reply of Ser-geant Beall.

"How soon?"

"Can't say exactly, but I suppose about toorrow night."
"How cold?"
"Can't tell, but it would not be a very great surprise to me if it was not as cold as it was during the cold spell. But it is hard to say. It will be well, however, for everybody to be prepared for the worst."

The reporter left the office consoled with Another Mikado.

Another one! and a better one! Such is the claims laid before the public by the original Mikado company coming to Atlanta next Tuesd and Wednesday. Of course the singing of the Emma Abbott Opera company could not be Improved upon, but the comedy element could have been, and the scenery was absent. The coming organization will give the great play in its perfection as they gave it in New York, when first presented there and when they inaugurated the craze. The following artists of the cast were the originals: Charles L. Harris, baritone, as Mikado; George Broderick, basso, late of Mapleton's, as Pooh-Bash; Wm. H. Seymour, comedian, of D'Oiley Carte, as Ko-ko; Hattie Starr, soprano, as Pitti Sing. Emma-Mabella Baker, contralto of the Ideal opera company, as Katisha.

To them are added the following well known New York artists:

Jay Taylor, tenor, the favorite of the New York Casino, as Nanki-Pooh.

Wm. Guiberson, baritone, of the Fay Templeton organization will give the great play in its perfe

Jay Taylor, tenor, the favorite of the New York Casino, as Nanki-Pooh.

Win. Guiberson, baritone, of the Fay Templeton opera company, as Pish-Tush.

Lucile Meredith, soprano, of the McCaul opera company, as Yum-Yum.

Selina Brough, soprano, the beautiful favorite of the New York Casino opera company, as Peep-Boo.

A chorus of twenty-one well-drilled voices sustains these artists. Such an ensemble, with complete scenery and rich costumes, will certainly present the great opera in its most perfect form, and its rendition will be a rare treat.

Of it the Brooklyn Eagle says: "The judgment of a large and critical andience pronounced the original 'Mikado,' as given last night at the Lee Avenue, by the same artists who first gave this charming opera in New York, to be one of the very best representations yet seen in this vicinity. In every respect the performance was a great success. The stage settings were superb, the costumes rich and appropriate, and the general appointments elegant."

A few weeks since Mr. M. Lee Starke, of the Young Men's Christian association, started a boys' prayer meeting. It was started as an experiment, prayer meeting. It was started as an experiment, but today't is an assured success. Last evening the parlors of the Y. M. C. A. were filled with small boys. The meeting was conducted by a boy under seventeen years of age, and twenty little fellows made talks that would have been an honor to any set of men.

Mothers should send their boys to this most important meeting every Friday afternoon, that their boys may be trained in religious work.
